ALEXANDRIA, VA.

THURSDAY, JUNE 1, 1871.

All the talk about "new departures," &c., &c., is entirely unnecessary. What the opponents of Radical measures desire, is the nomination of a candidate for President, who is honest, capable, and opposed to the political plans and designs of the present leaders of the Radical party, and who will be in favor of the administration of the government upon constitutional principles. They want to see introduced. again, economy, retrenchment, and reform in many particulars, and a recognition of the just rights of the States. And, such a nomination we hope to have-upon which can rally Conservatives, Democrats, and the judicious refleeting and moderate men of all parties. It is time that ultraism should be checked. The South, in truth, wants "peace," not in word, but in fact. This, we think, can only be brought about, effectually, by the success of men opposed to Radicalism, as it has existed for the last

The recent speech of Mr. Jefferson Davis. at Augusta, Ga., has incited the N. York Post. (in some respects quite a moderate Republican journal,) to a most unwonted display of acrimony, and its denunciation of Mr. Davis is virulent in the extreme. Whatever may be thought of the propriety of speeches from Mr. Davis, or however impolitic it may be thought that he should make public addresses, we see nothing in his reported remarks which calls for the abuse he has received from his opponents, or the severe comments that have been made in even some of the Southern papers. For ourselves, however, we wish Gen. Lee's example were followed in all respects.

The opponents of narrow gauge railroads maintain that while they may answer for short branch lines, they will fail for trunk roads with heavy trade. The government of British India is about testing this matter in a practical manner. Its first experiment is to be with a line of more than a thousand miles in length, strong exclamation, and left thescene. reaching from Kurrachee to Peshawer, from the seacoast, West of the month of the Indus. almost to the mountains on the Northwestern frontier of British India.

We have received the Annual Circular and been discharged from jail. Catalogue of the Washington University Medistudents in attendance last session was 173, principally from the Southern States. The faculty are all Southern men, and a limited number of beneficiary students is received anmually from the South. Circulars can be had the Faculty.

The discovery of "Cundurango" as a specific cure for cancer, and as communicated to our Government by Minister Wing has created quite a furore among the medical profession, and letters are pouring into the State Department and Senor Flores, the Minister from Ecuador, asking for specimens of the Cunduraugo wood with which to make experiments.

Of France, it is now asked-after the Commune, what? The moderate Republicans still forcement of the Ku-Klux bill. want a Republic with an efficient head-the Bourbon and Orleans houses have, it is said, jused and will unite for a legitimate monarchy-Napoleon's partizans hope for a re-establishment of the Empire-Who can predict the future of France?

In his late speech at Knoxville, Tenn., Ex-President Johnson said: - "I have never been influenced by a desire for gain. I can in all sincerity inquire, in the language of Samuel of oppressed? or of whose hand have I received any bribe to blind mine eyes therewith?"

When John Quincy Adams was President of the U. S. he, one summer, left Washington on a visit of a few days to his home in Mass. He was by some partizans advertised as a "runstway" from the seat of government! Now-but it is useless to go on. Times are changed!

What a vivid picture is drawn of the present condition of Paris, in a single sentence from a relegraphic cable dispatch. - "The executions are so numerous that the use of the mitrailleuse has been ordered." This exceeds the guillotine in the former reign of terror.

The Coroner's jury has brought in their verdict in the case of the Pittston colliery accident, and find that the means of ventilation were not such as required by law; that portion the members all withdrew to the meeting house tions of the machinery were not properly oiled; that the Company had on the day of the ac-cident employed a greater number of men than is warranted by law; and, that the Inspector of Mines knew of these violations of law, but failed in his duty in not protesting against them, and applying to the courts for an injunction against the operators.

At Mount Anburn Cemetary, near Boston, both white and colored soldiers participated in the decoration ceremonies. The former had engaged some cars to take them back to the city. Some of the colored soldiers, however, crowded in. They were put out, when they formed in line of battle and with fixed bayonets, but reinforcements arrived from the cemetary and other cars in sufficient numbers to thwart their determination.

The most original point made by Ex-President Johnson, in his late speech at Knoxville, was with reference to convict labor. "He believed the penitentiary system should be abolished. He would divide offenders into two classes, hanging the worst, and depriving the others of the power to propagate the species. In this they would improve morally, mentally and physically.

Mr. Hoffman, the head of the family, is a miller, and stands in good repute. The trouble commenced by his missing $2 from his pocket-book; he then hid his money. but he was unable to find it again, it having disappeared in an unaccountable manner. Articles of food and clothing began to leave in an equally mysterious way; crockery ware fell from shelves and was broken: stones, gravel, eggs, and other things were thrown about in the house, apparently without human agency, the headquarters of the disturbance appearing to be in the cellar. The family changed their residence, but the annoyances followed them. and as yet no satisfactory evidence of the proceedings has been given. Clothing belonging to the family has disappeared, and then mysteriously returned cut in pieces. Notes have been found in the house without there being any reasonable explanation of their presence. and skeptical young men have been hit on the head with red-hot stones. The Commissioner refused the request, for, as he says, to grant it would be to concede that the laws of the U. S. cannot be executed in said district. He further adds that he intends to collect the revenue in Alabama, and directs the Collector to proceed with the execution of his duties, and if resisted to call upon the local authorities for aid. If this is not sufficient the Commissioner will send troops to maintain the authority of the Collector and ensure the execution of the laws.

SALE OF COAL -A dispatch from New York. dated yestereay, says:-

"At noon to-day, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway Company sold at auction 80,000 tons of Scranton coal. The auctioneer commenced with lump, the first bid being at $5, and at this price about 800 tons were disposed of in lots of 100 tons. The price then fell to $4.75, at which over 9000 tons were sold. Steamboat coal started at $4.95, and fell to $4.75, the bulk of the lot going at the latter price.—Grate was started at $5, and fell slowly to $4.95, at which figure all was disposed of. Egg started at $5.15, and held the same throughout the sale. Stove commenced with a bid of $6, and sold rapidly at 5.80, 5.85, 5.87, 5.86, 5.874.—
Chestnut opened at $4.60, then went up to $4.624 and $4.65, at which latter price the lot was closed out. The sale was attended by about two hundred buyers, who bought rapidly. The coal was all made deliverable at Elizabethport in June.
